Sustainable Development at Allianz means combining long-term economic value creation with a holistic approach to environmental stewardship, social responsibility and corporate governance.

The four dimensions of Allianz’ sustainability strategy: our EESG approach

- Economic
  - Customer satisfaction
  - Renewable energy & carbon investments
  - Green products & services
  - SRI
  - Microinsurance

- Environmental
  - Carbon reduction strategy & target
  - Environmental footprint

- Social
  - Diversity
  - Compensation
  - Employee training & development
  - Employee satisfaction
  - Corporate donations
  - Employee volunteering

- Governance
  - Lobbying activities & political donations
  - Compliance training & programs
  - Corporate governance
The economic dimension of sustainability

- More than 80 green products and services offered from asset management to insurance
- More satisfied customers compared with peers in 52% of our markets
- Microinsurance impacted only somewhat by microfinance crisis in India
- Investments in renewable energy nearly doubled since 2009
- SRI AuM reduced due to volatility on equity markets, but now showing signs of recovery

1) 2011 figures finalized and updated in April 2012
Achievements in reducing our environmental impact

- 33% reduction of CO₂ emissions per employee since 2006
- Environmental Management System covers 83% of employees worldwide
- Energy from renewable sources now accounts for 44% of total energy consumption
- Travel requirements impacted e.g. by improving economy after financial market turbulences and by rebranding activities
- New target defined: additional 10% CO₂ reduction by 2015, inclusive 10% energy reduction (after “early-over-fulfillment” of previous targets)
Focus on people – enhancing diversity, skills, engagement & helping local communities

- Increasing share of women in management positions
- Intensified employee trainings
- 2nd globally unified employee engagement survey in 2011
- EUR 22.2mn donated for social, cultural and environmental issues
- Financial literacy program reached 67,500 pupils in 2011

Pursuing highest corporate governance standards

- European sovereign debt crisis: Allianz firmly committed to European unity, playing a constructive role in developing lasting solutions to the crisis.

- Implementation of Anti-Corruption Program continued Group-wide.

- Allianz4Good Network established in 2011 to strengthen CR governance and help steer CR activities across the Group.

- Commitment to collaborate on sustainability issues: Allianz Forum in Berlin inaugurated in 2011; events: e.g. Demography Forum hosted in January 2012.

- Other topics:
  - Two-tier Board system
  - Compliance with German Corporate Governance Code (exception: fixed compensation for Supervisory Board)
  - Internal Code of Conduct which is obligatory for all employees and forms part of employment contracts
  - Remuneration scheme for top management integrating sustainability into compensation
Key global issues identified via materiality assessment

Allianz Materiality Landscape

Most material topics

Access to finance
- Climate change
- Demographic change
- Digitalization
- Stability of financial markets

1) A systematic materiality process regularly undertaken by Allianz identifies the most important challenges and opportunities relating to global issues now and in the future: Access to finance, Climate change, Demographic change, Stability of financial markets, Digitalization. The Allianz Materiality Landscape presents the outcome of this process by highlighting which sub-issues are perceived to be most material to Allianz' business. The issues flagged in blue are those global issues with a very long-term horizon impacting our business over decades; these issues are presented in a dedicated section called "Global issues". In contrast, the issues flagged in green are the issues of today with a more short to mid-term impact on our business; these topics are covered in several sections, where relevant, throughout our report.

We support and encourage volunteering among our employees, and the use of their expertise and competencies for the community’s benefit.

In the Social OPEX initiative, trained Allianz employees apply business improvement tools to help socially committed organizations.

Their involvement contributes to pride and identification with our company, building skills and team development.
Community investment: structured involvement in the communities where we operate

- Through structured involvement with strategic partners in the communities where we operate, we support the development of effective solutions to address social concerns.
- In 2009, we launched the initiative My Finance Coach to take finance into schools; in 2011 we reached 65,800 pupils across Germany and 1,700 in Indonesia through corporate volunteering, teacher training and extracurricular activities.
- Familiarizing young people with financial issues will help them to make better financial decisions now and in the future.
We actively participate in international working groups for climate change, asset management and insurance, as part of the UNEP Finance Initiative.

Allianz promotes dialog between the worlds of business, academia, politics and civil society through the Allianz Forum in Berlin.

A globally-acting, central department provides political issue management and government relations expertise for the Group.

Malus:
Annual accumulation and deferred payment of mid-term bonus allows easy claw-back if short-term performance turns out to be non-sustainable or below market

Retention:
Accumulated non-vested stock compensation expires if manager leaves at own request or at fault

²) Beginning with fiscal year 2010
Governance system: a two-tier system consisting of Management Board + Supervisory Board

- Two-tier system widespread in continental Europe
- Allianz Management Board: 11 members
  - manages Allianz Group
  - regional and functional responsibilities
  - informs Supervisory Board about strategy + business development
- Allianz Supervisory Board: 12 members
  - supervision of / advice to Management Board; appointment of members of Management Board
  - audit committee, standing committee, personnel committee, risk committee, nomination committee
- Advantages of two-tier system:
  - clear separation of management and supervision/control
  - shareholders’ interests more effectively represented given a dispersed shareholder structure
