

Allianz Climate Risk Award 2022

Declaration

I hereby certify that I have read and understood the selection criteria, application procedure of the Allianz Climate Risk Award and Terms and Conditions. I confirm that, to the best of my knowledge, all details provided in the Application Form and in any supporting documentation are true and complete.

I will notify Allianz Climate Risk Award if there are any changes related to my application after the submission of this research.

By applying for the Allianz Climate Risk Award the applicant is agreeing to collaborate with Allianz on publishing key results of the research on various communication channels, e.g., in the form of an interview with the author on the Allianz Group's website, in the form of infographics on social media platforms of Allianz Group or in the form of a publication with insights into the research's key findings. Allianz may also publish the submitted essay as part of a compendium on its website. The author will be clearly referenced in all communication activities citing from his work.

I understand that the Jury selects the finalists and winners according to the following criteria as to their best knowledge and understanding:

- Innovation: Research project is focused on a compelling approach for assessing risks of natural catastrophes and on how new technologies can help mitigate such risks and foster resilient societies.
- Impact: Research project can make a difference on the current insurance practice and/or advance current practices around societal resilience.
- Applicability: Research project addresses a relevant problem and is ideally connected to a practical solution.
- Academic excellence: Research project follows a sound research approach and methodology.

I agree and confirm my participation in the process of the Allianz Climate Risk Award and accept the conditions stated in its Terms & Conditions.
